The Scholar and the World.
In mediæval Rome, I know not where.

And on half-lit finger, shining clear,
A golden ring with the device, "Strike him
Greatly the people wondered, though

The meaning that these words but half expressed Until a learned clerk, who at noonday
With downcast eyes was passing on his way
Passed, and observed the spot and marked it
Whereon the shadow of the finger fell;
And, coming back at midnight, delved and
A serpent, slithering back a little

Down they sat, my lady, under ground,
Lest by a passing knight or squire should find
Lit by a flaming jewel on the wall,
And opposite a brazen statue stood;
With low and hasty in threatening attitude
Upon his forehead, like a coronet,
Were three myriads of golden garlands as
"That which I fear, I am; my fatal aim None can escape, not even you infamous fiend,
For by the hall was a fair table placed,
With golden vessels and golden cups encased
With rubies, and the plates of gold
And gold the bread and viands manifold,
Around it, silent, mortals and sat;
And on the wall, in armor clad
And ladies, beautiful as flowers and trees,
But they were stone, their hearts within
Were cold as stone;
And they were hall was filled in every part
With silent crowds, stoney in face and heart
Long at the scene, low fled and amazed
The trembling clerk in speechless wonder
Then from the table, by his gird made gold,
He took a goblet and a knife of gold,
And under the

The vaulted ceilings with long clamorous
The archer sped his arrow at their call,
Shattering the turbulent jewel on the wall,
And all was dark beyond and overhead,
Stark on the floor the luckless archer lay.
The writer of this legend then records
Its ghostly application in these words:
The image of the archer's arrow
Whose beckoning finger points to realms
Our hinds and passions are the downward
That leads the soul from a diviner air;
The archer, Death; the flaming jewel, Life;
Terrestrial goods, the goblet and the knife.
The knights and ladies, all whose flesh and
By avatars have been hardened into stone;
The clerk, the scholar whom the love of

The scholar and the world! The centuries
The discord in the harmonies of life!
The love of learning, the sequestered nook
And all the sweet serenity of books;
The market place, the eager love of gain,
Whose aim is vanity and whose end is pain
—Extract from "Morituri Salutamus," by W. Longfellow, in Harper's Magazine for

The following instances, among others, are given in Mr. Samuel Pilnissol's report, entitled Our Seamen, showing the readiness with which vessels are often ordered, and the lives of the seamen sacrificed:

"On occasion of one of my visits to the port in the North, I was met by a man who knew what my errand there was likely to be, and he said:—'Oh, Mr. Pilnissol, you should have been here yesterday, when a vessel went down the river on a sudden, and everybody who saw her went to hear of her being lost. She was under the personal directions of her captain and the Captain himself said to me

Mr. C—B—k said, as he was about to start, "That ship will never reach her destination."

Mr. J—B— said, "She did not have time to be more than twelve or fourteen miles out of water."

Mr. J—H—, a policeman, and his colleague, "Dear me, how deep is the water?"

Mr. W—B— said to a friend accompanying him by his side, "Dear me! this is a very deep water."

Mr. J—S— said, "It strikes me as being very deep."

The Captain called on his friend, H—, who said he (the Captain) was depressed in spirits. He told H— that he (the Captain) had on his side loaded and was only inches apart from the water. He said his friend to look after his (the Captain's) wife. H— gave him some rice cake of the worst, and they shook and parted.

J— N— and C— two workmen each other that they would not go on ship if the owner would give them a dollar. Another workman, M—, rather go to prison than go in the ship. Two of the wives of the

She was sent. The men were then threatened, and one at least promised ten shillings extra per voyage to induce him to go. As she had been about to overawe the men, the police-boat left her. She was going. As the police-boat left her the men, deciding at the last moment that they would rather be taken to the police station than to the police, hailed the police, and begged to be taken there. The police said: "You may as well go to the police station as to the police, and the ship sailed. They were in great anxiety, and told me that it came on to blow, the ship could

I have been out in much worse weather, but this vessel was not properly kept, and her owner stood to gain £2,000, else went down, by over-insurance, and that there were many other almost as she was to encounter rough weather ships as rotten that if they straggled go to pieces at once; ships loaded that every sea would make

On Monday we heard of a shipwreck having been seen; rockets had been sent up by her; it was feared she was picked up, and this was all that we heard of her.

Mr. D—d was quite correct. Saturday he saw his wife reading the paper, and said to her:—“Look at the — in a day or two.”—“Look out of the river,” she is sure to say. She was lost, and nearly twenty years turned home nevermore.

News Condensed.

The rains have had the crops around Ottawa.

A Maryman's head of trout has been taken from Kingston.

The lacrosse players of Montreal are not visiting Britain this year.

Another Bath is being built at the McIntosh, with heat oil at Bonaventure.

108,000 young salmon have been released in three of the eastern rivers in Quebec.

The burglar is still well known in the neighborhood, the police having been defeated in several attempts.

The Carleton in Urtel are lauded by the Algonquins, and it is expected they will have to surrender.

The Woodstock Reviewer was destroyed by fire on Sunday morning. Several adjoining buildings were burnt.

The Lachine Canal is to be enlarged on the old line. Tenders are to be invited for the work very shortly.

Frasier Mackenzie is to sail for Canada on the 19th inst., and will reach Ottawa about the 21st of September.

Mr. Durand, of Abington, is spoken of as Mr. Mev's candidate for the Speakership of the Ontario Legislature.

Judgment in the personal charges to the Earl of Peterborough has been given for the first time since the 18th.

Mr. Gouin, the federal candidate at the North election for the River, has filed a petition against the return of the Hon. Mr. McIntosh.

A raft of two million feet of timber was taken from Lake Huron on Friday night. Two vessels went ashore on Lake Michigan in the same storm.

Mr. C. T. Bonnett, leader of the Opposition in the Newfoundland Legislature, is going to England, and it is said will not return.

The revenue of Prince Edward Island, if it may be judged by the returns for the month of July, has more than doubled itself in two years.

David L. Taylor, well known in this town, was committed for trial in Toronto on the 15th, charged with having committed a rape upon Mary Ann Widdowson.

Michael Mann, a young roving, aged 16, was shot and dangerously wounded at Point St. Charles, Montreal, on the 8th, by a woman named Mary Down, whose house he was breaking into.

The Mountain Meadow massacre trial has ended in the disagreement of the jury, nine of whom were for acquittal, and three, one dissent and two members, for the conviction of Bishop Lee as leader of the persons engaged in the affair.

The Veterans of 1812.—The Ottawa Veterans Association, Col. Macpherson, has gone to Europe to settle, at the various points throughout the Province, the claims of the veterans of 1812.

The Midland.—A Port Hope telegram of the 9th, says: "The Midland Extension to Waukegan is now complete, and the first locomotive arrived there today. The road will be open for traffic in a few days."

The "Land Sale" Again.—A Montreal telegram says: "Mr. Victor Hudson has brought an action against Messrs. Jette, Lafontaine, Cassidy, and other investors in the land, for the sum of $164,400. The action arises out of the Lachine canal speculation of the defendants. Mr. Hudson brought suit for the above sum, and signed the deed of sale, finding the Government are not going to buy the enlargement of the canal as he expected. Mr. Hudson brings an action to cancel the sale. The ground of Mr. Hudson's action is that the deed of sale was obtained from him by fraud."

A Child Killed by a Rooster.—On Tuesday last, says the Stratford Herald of recent date, a child of Mr. Langley, who lives two miles from town, while playing in the yard, was attacked by a rooster and was knocked down and spurned several times in the face and head before the mother could rescue it. Dr. Frings, who was called in, found that one stroke of the spur had penetrated the brain. The little sufferer expired within half an hour, and death came to its relief. Dr. Frings says that during a practice of over twenty years he never met or heard of a case like this before, and it is perhaps the first in the history of the world.

FATALITIES.—Telegrams of the 9th contain the following catalogue of casualties either occurring on that day or the first casualty: A girl while laboring, unaided, drowned herself at Camden, Lincoln, on Friday last. A laborer on the Credit Valley, near Woodstock, hanged himself on Sunday night. The bodies of two men who, when last seen alive, were intoxicated, have been found in Kingston Harbor. A boy is not expected to recover from a pistol shot he received when trying to enter a house near Montreal on Sunday. A prominent Boston merchant drowned himself on Saturday. A little girl, three years old, was drowned at Lake George that day. A couple soon to be married were drowned in the afternoon of the 8th, after which a heavy rain was run over by his own horse and wagon and killed on the morning of the 9th.

(REPORT BY A. DEXTER, Esq., P. M.)

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 11.

Court resumed at 2:30 p. m.

YALSA PARTISANS.

Charles R. Ransom appeared in the custody to answer a charge of having, on the 25th of April last, with intent to defraud Wm. H. Hutton and Geo. Demme, by false pretences, fraudulently induced them to endorse several promissory notes of $500 each, payable as therein specified, which were then delivered to the said Charles Ransom, who afterwards used and dealt with same as valuable securities, contrary to the statute in that behalf.

The evidence of Mr. Demme was to the effect that he had, after much persuasion, endorsed the notes, defendant representing that he had a large amount of accounts outstanding, which could be easily collected in time to meet the paper as it matured. Defendant told him a statement which he said was correct, of his assets, amounting to about $7,000, and said he did not owe more than $1,400. Mr. Ransom was present, also Mr. Roberts, a creditor, who agreed to accept $2,500 for a claim of $4,100. Defendant agreed verbally to assign a sufficient amount of the accounts due to cover the notes endorsed by witness. On this understanding the notes were given to Roberts, who disavowed them at a Bank in Hamilton, and the endorsers were subsequently obliged to retire two of them. The others had not yet matured. Defendant subsequently refused to sign the assignment of accounts, as agreed upon. He said he was right; that he was collecting the accounts and would meet the notes without any trouble whatever. Subsequently witness discovered that there was a note in the Bank against defendant which he had not mentioned when he gave an account of his indebtedness. Spoke to him on this point, and he said he had forgotten it. Again pressed him to execute the assignment of accounts, but he refused, saying he had no account of accounts, and that the statements shown him the notes were endorsed were incorrect.

R. J. Pettigrew, defendant's book-keeper was sworn and said he made out a statement which showed about $5,000 due Mr. Ransom. The books were in a bad state and he did not defend the statement was not correct.

There were other evidence taken, but the above is a summary of the principal points. The case was resumed this morning and is not yet finished.

LUDLOW.

Ten other cases were laid over until to-morrow.

FROM MONTREAL.

The Loss of the "Algerian."

ALL THE PASSENGERS SAVED.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.

The steamer Algerian, on her down trip last night, struck on Split Rock and in a few minutes the passengers were all saved and laid out safely and laid out in the 5 o'clock train this morning.

The annual Provincial race-matches began at Montreal yesterday. The competition will be continued to-day and the principal prizes decided.

A despatch from England states that Messrs. Thompson &amp; Shaw, iron merchants and manufacturers, have compounded with their creditors at the rate of 50 cents on the dollar. Their liabilities are said to amount to $500,000.

A farmer at Louth, named Gregory, had a man employed on his farm who complained that he did not get enough to eat. This being annoying to the farmer, he commenced to "cheat" his employee. The latter objecting to be cheated, stabbed Gregory, and then took to the woods.

It appears that the accident recently to the train by which the Crown Prince of Germany was travelling, although the Prince himself was unharmed, and the train was not derailed, was a very serious one. From an investigation ordered by the Austrian Government, it appears that the train was derailed by the accident, sustained heavy losses during the late crash, which it caused to make good by reducing the working staff, and to this cause the accident is attributed. The Minister of Commerce has now taken the matter in hand, and is considering the best means of securing safe travelling over the line in the future.

THE PICTON CRICKETERS.

The alleged understanding between the Picton Club at Kingston, concerning which our statement is denied, we have only to say that either a member of the Picton Club, or one of those who accompanied them to the field, they were the column of the Times is obliged to change their uniforms at seven times during the progress of the game, and that each of the uniforms, seemed to be worse than the other, but, as evidenced by the fact, they only lost the Picton players by ten runs. ### Pansies for Thoughts.

came to live in a great city one May. Her home was one of many houses in the city, all alike, with a little ornamental balcony on one side, a bay window at the other, and a tiny grass plot in front which grandly called itself "the garden." Opposite to a row of houses very similar, and with dwellers on both sides came to take a lively interest in this family.

And glimpses of books and pictures and a no, where every evening, when Rob Roy no home, the clear touch and tuneful voice Helen, his wife, was heard.

Thus they commended themselves to the liveliness of the street, who cast favorable or upon them as fit partakers of aesthetes or.

But a greater company by far, the mothers, proved them for their sedulation of the day. And the lady was surely as lovely a heart could wish. A sweet, round, delicately fashioned creature, pretty from the top of the head, crowned with little rings of my hair, to the rose-pink soles of her feet; with great, smiling blue eyes, a dainty little nose, and an actual, sweet, cherry mouth, not umbilical aperture for the reception of details which goes by that name in the average baby face. You will observe I use the minime pronoun. If a baby is pretty, vivacious, and acute, is it not sure to be a girl?

 If it is a Dutch cherub, with a splendid physique and a lampish demeanor, which the title impostor tries to palm off as dignity, receiving only his part of kin thereby, is it not because of the mathematics of the

When the baby went to drive in her perambulator her course through the street was royal progress. One loyalist after another tayed her chariot to do her homage. They kissed her of course; they rejoiced to find her taudrils would soon become curls; they cheered in her month, and gave each other telligence concerning her latest tooth, they pointed out the dimples in her cheeks, the two hat indented her shoulders, the many that twelt at her elbow and around her wrist and in her hands. Her most enthusiastic subjects counted her toes, examining each shining nail, scrutinized her fairy ears, and beaught her to show them her tongue. When she condescendingly stretched it forth they whisper-

Baby was a friendly creature, sweet tempered as well as merry, and she patiently aired her gifts and graces before her people : but she was artful too, and kept her sweetest wiles for home.

What a famous day it was when she took her first steps ! We saw the exhibition, and it was as good as a Christmas pantomime.

At Rob Roy's ring Helen opened the door, and the greeting kiss given, led him at once to the balcony, and plunged into a description, quite intelligible to us from her gestures of how she had set baby against the wall, and knelt before her with open arms to lure her to come to her, and how baby, after some hesitancy had suddenly flew to her, and she had said her two or three times to make sure.

she could do it, and there was no mistake. Then Rob shook his head and put on the most incredulous, tearing expression, and Helen, persisting, looked very pretty with her bloom heightened and a rippling brown lock straying into her earnest eyes. Asseveration proving vain, she went off for the champion walker of the universe.

Baby came, duly arrayed for the solemnity in a short white frock much befrilled and a blue sash tied in a big butterfly bow behind. She greeted her father with effusion, but when he derisively requested her company for a promenade in the park she grew calm. Being put in position, the kneeling pair— for Rob the sceptic straightway became a devotee—enticed her to them by all their arts. But none of these blandishments moved, belying til she chose to set out. Closely pressing herself against the wall she watched her parents for a minute with a tranquil and connying smile. Then catching her dress, she use-wise, at each side, she advanced, not a hitherto with the skimming motion of the sparrow, but with stately little steps until just in front of them, where she paused in the pretentious attitude of coquetry and irresolution in the world, and signalled her victory by casting herself into her father's arms. The shouting arose, in which we blush to say the overwrought spy joined, thus bringing condign punishment upon her eyes, for, discovering the publicity, the actors withdrew. Lily throned on her father's shoulder, bent a tale too against it with her wee blue-kid feet, and

Only a week after we heard that baby was ill. Very ill, the report was as the day wore on, and more than one pair of eyes filled when it grew plain that there was small hope of her recovery. Baby lay on the bed with the clutch of diphtheria at her darling throat—her soft, white throat, which we had often kissed, lifting the coral the better to see its fairness and plumpness. She suffered moaning constantly; sometimes catching her throat with both hands, turning entreatful eyes on her mother.

"O, God," she groaned, "take her to Thyself, if it be Thy will, but give me her pain, pray!"

She would stand for hours carressing baby with lips and hands, soothing her with all the store of fount words, looking at her with a smile—such a smile!—in her eyes.

"You must take rest," kind friends said.
 "I rest," she would answer, pointing to the restless little child. God was good. The day that baby lay a dying she had no pain. She knew her father and mother, and constantly smiled a weak little smile upon them and often held up her mouth to be kissed. At sunset she turned her great pathetic eyes upon them and held out her arms.

For a little while she lay in pale, lovely sleep within the snowy draperies of her cradle all among flowers, and then there came the day when her parents shut the light of the eyes from their sight, when they left the daughter dead. Helen asked

In a few days Rob carried her to her own mother, in whose household chronicles such loss had more than once been written, and there comforted their tears.

Miss Ray was forty. Her attire was in good taste, but it hung sharply off her angles. It is the treacherous wont of old maid's clothes and it had the other fault ascribed to the order—extreme neatness. She was thin, her hair was threaded with gray, and her features

The Rev. Mr. Bond, was received with great enthusiasm, the cheers being frequently repeated. He expressed his delight at meeting them. For eight years he had been making up his mind to visit Kingston. He was rejoiced to see their noblest-looking British faces. Two years ago he celebrated the anniversary in the

A photograph of a landscape featuring a body of water in the foreground and a distant, hazy shoreline. The sky is a pale, uniform color, suggesting an overcast day. The water is dark and still, reflecting the light from the sky. The shoreline is a thin, dark line on the horizon.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor creases and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The right edge of the page is bound, showing dark stitching or thread. There is no text or other markings on the page.

NO. 94.

Bread Cast upon the Waters
BY RUTH CHESTNUTFIELD.

John Mallory was returning from his work with his spade over his shoulder, when he saw a woman sitting by the wall, weeping bitterly.

John had a kind heart and was easily moved at the sight of distress, so he stopped and addressed the woman.

"You seem to be in trouble, what is what he said.

The mourner lifted her face and he saw that she was a young woman, scarcely more than a girl, in fact. But this did not lessen

"Trouble! Ah, yes; I have come such long way and am so fatigued—so much woe I went to the people's doors, but they said, 'Go away, we have no room for strangers; go the hotel way, do you not?'"

"So I went to the hotel, but the strain was worse than the rest. Oh, how he frustrated me, he was so fierce! He called me a traitor because he found I had no money. No money! For that was it, and I had no money for my business, and I came out into the woods to die."

"Cheer up, then, if that is all," said John, and came with me. My mother went to find her own way.

John spoke truly. His mother's heart was like his own. He only needed to know the girl was a stranger to give her a warm welcome.

"Take off your things, my dear," said

"You are so kind—so very kind," said visitor, taking the rocking chair offered and then John saw that she was not young; but singularly beautiful, though.

"You're out of health. You're not to be abroad," said Mrs. Miller. "How mother would feel to see you looking so!"

"Alas, I have no mother," she said; and tears began to flow afresh. "I will tell

So when they had eaten their evening meal and the table had been cleared, the young man told her story.

After the death of her mother he had come to Boston, hoping to be able to support himself and her by teaching his own language just as he had found a situation which was to be permanent, he became very ill. The climate of this country had never agreed with him, and he was always mourning for "the

Of her relatives in France she knew nothing; and although since her father's death had written more than once to her mother and friends in Canada, no letters had ever come.

That John was not insensible to his attractions may well be imagined, and the consequences might have been told, if his heart had not been already engaged. That being the case, he saved his friendship by bringing his betrothed

Curious it was to see the two together, the staid New England girl, with rosy cheeks, her calm, blue eyes, and hair, her plain dress, and steady New England tongue; and Estelle, with her olive skin and laughing eyes as dark as night, her

"I shall not forget you till my dying day," said Estelle, with tears in her eyes. "The good God bless your kindness to the stranger—you, and your mother, and the pretty Marie."

In a few weeks the Mallorys received letter from Estelle, stating that she had reached the end of her journey's end in safety, and was well.

One day a handsome travelling

New England village. It was an over-

"The villain! I should like to lay my hands over his back," said Sir Edward.

"It isn't worth while—such an insignificant back," said the lady; "only don't touch him, and think all the attention is for nothing."

By and by, the landlord having made further errand to the parlor, the lady was sitting by the window, remarked:—
"You have a pleasant little village here."

"There's a farmer by that name in Mr. John Mallory."

"The same, no doubt. He's living and his mother."

"She died some six years ago, ma'am. It's well, perhaps, considering the misfortune that's come to the family."

"Misfortune?"

ACTION OF THE ALLIED POWERS.

RUSSIAN BODY-GUARD ATTACKED.

RUSSIA WILL BE REVENGED.

Action of Turkey.

A LARGE FORCE IN THE FIELD.

PARIS, Aug. 21. The Memorial Diplomatic

quays all the powers have agreed in urging

Serbia and Montenegro to remain neutral.

The present conflict, and this advice will be backed by force if necessary.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A telegram from Berlin

says the Klokodtchek attacked the Russian body-guard, and it is expected that the Russian government will order the military occupation of Klokodtchek.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 21.—The news of all the foreigning and Hungarian and the heads of all the departments in St. Petersburg, are invited to a banquet to be given by the Russian government to the officers of the American army.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The news from Vienna

says the Russian General Kanina is organizing an expedition against Klokodtchek, in revenge for the attack upon the Russian soldiers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 21.—The Turkish government will soon have 15,000 men concentrated in Hungary. It has been waiting until now to concentrate sufficient forces to crush the insurrection with the least possible delay.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—The German government has ordered to take offensive steps. Powers actively friendly have requested facilities to communicate with the interested governments, and informing them they have nothing to lose from the intervention of foreign powers.

THE ROYAL YACHT COLLISION.

Semi-official Report of the Disaster.

The following report of the disaster appears in the Court Circular of last evening.

When the Alberta was crossing the Solent

and the Queen and Royal Family on board,

a sailing yacht ran under the Alberta,

and struck her, and she went down in a few moments.

The Queen, though terribly shocked, gave orders that every effort should be made to rescue the persons on board, but it is reported that two have been lost besides those who have been injured.

Her Majesty spoke to Miss Peel, the lady who was aboard, and made comforting inquiries after the wounded.

On reaching Gosport, the Queen gave orders to Admiral Elliot to spare no efforts

on behalf of the sufferers, and to pay every attention to their wants.

AMERICAN.

Thurlow Weed's Family Poisoned.

FAILURE.

THE ILLINOIS OUTLAW.

OPERATIONS OF MASKED ROBBERS.

The Trouble in Georgia.

New York, August 21. All the family of Thurlow Weed and his wife were today poisoned by the carelessness of a servant in declaring a copper kettle with oxalic acid, by leaving some of the latter in the kettle. They were recovered, but all had a very narrow escape.

The amount of liability of Bente &amp; Co.,

who have suspended, is unknown. It is stated that they have made bad investments in return, which has fallen on their hands, and funds on heavy shipments of land were returned by their buyers to secure themselves.

A Chicago appeal says that two men who appealed to outlaws in Franklin Co., Ill.,

and who were shot by the Sheriff's posse for depreciations, have been hanged, one being dead. Several others were arrested severely wounded. Seven of the fourteen fired on have been taken to the hospital, and the others are proceeding to be indicted against such of the Illinois "Ku-Klux" as may be captured.

A conviction of large burglaries in Brooklyn, yesterday, lessened the fear of the law,

thousand of criminal churches, the exiles law,

especially the dance closing saloons on the Sabbath, and stating they will not vote for any member of the Legislature unless pledged

TUESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1875.

Town and Vicinity.

POLICE COURT.—By way of variety there was no business in the Police Court to-day.

PERSONAL.—J. Han Ferry, Esq., of Whitby, Registrar of the County of Ontario, was in town to-day.

SOLUTIONS.—B. W. Stirling, successful solution of Enigma No. 2, and W. M.
Maddox, correctly solves No. 1, and 2.

TOWN COUNCIL.—A special meeting of Council will be held on Monday evening
next, to further consider the Auditor's report.

PRINCE.—The steam yacht Stirling
steamed out of the harbor about 11 o'clock this morning, with a picnic party on board.

A FIXTURE.—The date for the return game at cricket between the Belleville and Kingston juniors has been fixed for Friday, September 10th. The game will be played on the Belleville grounds.

RECURSION.—It seems that we were in error in announcing the Grand Triumphal procession for Saturday last. The excursion will not take place until Saturday next,
the 28th August.

ACCIDENT.—The challenge race is now filled, the owners of the Katie Gray having accepted Mr. Phipps's proposal to sail on Friday. The hour for starting will depend upon the force and direction of the wind.

"BLAUMBERG'S DREAM."—This exhibition can be seen every evening at the opposite the Anglo-American Hotel. Admission, 15 cents; 2 tickets, 25 cents.
Children, 10 cents.

THE MARKET.—We notice that the Market Committee have at length agreed to their duty, and that the market square was watered on Saturday morning last, and again this morning. This is as it ought to be.

UNST.—We learn that the first class
yacht Jan was up in Big Bay last week.
Particulars have not reached us, but there must have been some awfully bad "man-shmanship" on the part of the crew to upset
so staunch a craft.

CRICKET.—It has been suggested that the Belleville Club and the Juniors play afternoon match on Friday. The youngsters could hardly expect to win, but it would be excellent training for them and good practice for both clubs.

WEEDS.—The Street Surveyor has already displayed commendable energy in putting rid of the weeds which fringe several of the streets on which traffic is light. A second crop has sprung up, however, and a plentiful harvest awaits the operations of the mower.

LAWN FESTIVAL.—Amongst the most important of coming events is the lawn festival, which is to take place to-morrow night on Senator Flint's grounds. With all the additional to those which made the festival of last week so highly successful, the fest of to-morrow night ought to prove even more so.

FINE TOMATOES.—Mr. J. W. London, of this office, makes a specialty of growing early and fine tomatoes, as he does of excellent fine printing promptly and satisfactorily. And as a proof of the pudding is in the eating, he has given us a basket of fine luscious tomatoes to eat, which will be attended to in due and ancient style.

GARDEN THIEVES.—Depredators of this class are becoming bold, and owners of gardens and orchards will require to be vigilant at night and in the early mornings to prevent the spoliation of their property by lawless boys and young men. The law in this respect is very severe, and an example
or two would have a most excellent effect
in deterring them from their depredations.
If they are to be thieves, they require the effect of a very venial offence.

HAMILTON REGATTA.—The following from the Hamilton Times, concerning the regatta of the Burlington Yacht Club, will be read with interest by yachtmen here.
The regatta of this Club, which is to be the first of a series of regattas to come off
this fall at Toronto, Kingston, Cobourg, etc.—take place on the 4th of next month.
The usual course for first-class yachts has now in sailing in the Bay large yachts
have very little chance against small ones,
and as a new yacht club has been started,
and the regatta is to be held at different places, it is to be in former years,
would it not be well to make a new departure and have the race for first-class yachts sailed in the Lake? The same might be made from Kingston the Ocean House to a buoy off Rivory Creek, and thence a long stretch taken to another one off Brant, and from thence home, making a run of about 50 miles. The second class yacht could sail in the Bay and return opposite the Ocean House. By doing this the Club could get yachts like the Orion and others to compete, which they could not do if the regatta is held in the Bay. In addition to this, we are sure the crowd of spectators would be large, and no pleasure yer spending an afternoon could be found than watching an exciting yacht race,

every movement of which could be plainly seen. Leaving spectators out of the question altogether, it would be a most lucrative test of the sailing merits of the different yachts and the seamanship of their crews. We hope the Club will take this into consideration."

BOATING.—The Kingston Yacht is entitled to the honor of a boat. It says in yesterday's issue: "The Belleville paper states that the Kingston Cricket Club to go up there and play a match to decide the rivalry with the Belleville Club, the sides having even games to their credit. All right.
Will our friends please accommodate Belleville with a July defeat? What a height our contemporary will have to fall from it—as in fact it will—by the Belleville team should win a victory."

DEBATES.—The gentlemen who were appointed to examine the designs, maps,
and scores, presented their report to the Council last night. After thoroughly examining all the designs, etc., offered for sale, they make a recommendation to the Council, which for obvious reasons is not made public as yet. Should the Council determine to purchase, now would be a good time to do so, as owing to the prevailing dullness, droppings and tags are offered at much lower rates than they could be bought for in more prosperous times.

Mineral Discoveries.

The Ottawa Office says: Buckingham is again excited over more mineral discoveries. Mr. Murray, the Secretary Treasurer of the county, and two or three other gentlemen in Buckingham township, have awakened to the fact that they are proprietors of a mountain of Aspidite or Phosphate of lime. It is situated a few hundred yards from the bank of the River du Loure about seven miles from the village. Mr. Brown, of Perth, has rented the right to take out phosphate from Mr. J. K. Brewer's portion of the mountain and has started a company to work for $2 per ton. He has had three men at work for about four weeks, and has excavated over eighty tons of rich phosphate.

Mr. Richard Shilby's iron mine in Nepean has been visited by the London and given it as his opinion that silver can be found in quantity in the same locality.
Messrs. Haycock are pushing on their excavations in Templeton, and they expect to have them in operation this fall.

The Dominion of Canada Plumbago
Company at Buckingham have a large number of men at work turning out carbon. The company is very busy, and the property, to prepare the lead for the market.

EUROPEAN MARKETS.—A Cable telegram from London, Aug. 23rd says: The Market Express in its weekly review of the grain market says: The wheat crop in Great Britain has been gathered in much better order than was expected. Prices
have generally yielded 1/2 to 2d, and in some cases 2d to 3d. New samples look well in comparison with those of last year with less acreage and diminished yield.
The Paris market has been very quiet.
The harvest has been gathered in much better order than was expected. Prices
have generally yielded 1/2 to 2d, and in some cases 2d to 3d. New samples look

Daily Intelligence

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALLY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 9.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1875.

NO. 101

DAILY INTELLIGENCER

Published at five o'clock every afternoon (Sundays excepted), and will be furnished by carriers at the rate of $3.00 a year if paid in advance, $3.50 otherwise. The price to mail subscribers has been raised to $3.00 a year, the old price; $2.00 for six months; $1.00 for three months.

Special attention will be paid to reporting the proceedings of Courts of Law, Corporations, Public Meetings, &c., &c., and in short, anything that may be expected to make the Daily Intelligence a journal of public patronage.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
A liberal scale of prices for advertisements has been arranged as follows:

NO 103

fore I was sixteen I had troubles and care and at twenty-one my father's heavy business and large estate fell into my hands.

"Other men called me old-fashioned then for I was grave, sedate and reserved about my years. Engrailed by business, I have never cared much for society, and never certainly for any one fair face until I saw Annette Colton. She was as sweet and womanly as she was pretty, too gentle and yielding perhaps, but to me altogether lovely."

"I can imagine just what she was," said Sophie. "She is very lovely now."

"Her father," continued Mr. Bradford, "knew my love before I had myself

"Any man might be proud to give quickly to your loving care," said Sophie, "if you had not one shilling of the world."

"Thank you, my dear. Colton probably thought much more of my bank account than of me. He fooled me perfectly, Sophie, and made me believe Annette loved me," she shows shy with a sweet, maidenly modesty. "If I invited her out, she was ever ready she sang for me; she talked with me in low sweet voice, winning me to deeper love at every interview. I saw that she grew pale when I was tender, that her little hand trembled and shrank from mine when I strove to clasp it; but I believed her false."

"When I asked him for her hand, I was eagerly glad to grant my prayer. I told Annette of my love, and her father consent to the wooing, she whispered a faint assent."

"I was so proud, so happy, Sophie, prepared my house—this house—for bride."

"Then she has been here!"

"No. I planned to surprise her. I lived in a small, poor cottage at Bristol, I furnished this with the costliest furniture to give her a welcome. In the rooms I all that I thought could please her. I loved paintings, and choice ones hung

I ever had, the noblest man I ever knew."

"And he too is dead!"

"Why do you not apply to Reuben for it?"

"I loved my husband!" she pleaded.
"And you were right when, loving you refused to marry me. But now Nettie, now that he has gone from life from your love, could you not come to be my cherished wife!"

"Me!" she cried.

"I have waited twenty-two years for you," Reuben pleaded, "for no other love has ever crowded yours from my heart. The old love is there, waiting for you, Betty."

"Let me think!" she whispered,
too much happiness!"

About Astronomy.

THE PROFESSOR IN HIS OWN.

I have heard him as I was going home the other evening. A big telescope was pointing heavenward from the public square, and he stood beside it and thoughtfully inquired:

"Is it possible, gentlemen, that you do not care to view the beautiful works of nature above the earth? Can it be true that man of your intellectual appearance will suddenly cling to 10 cents rather than take a look through this telescope and bring the beasties of heaven within 10 miles of your eyes?"

The appeal was too much for one young man to resist. He was a tall young man with a long face, high cheek bones and sensitive nose. He looked at the 10 cents and then at the telescope, hesitated for a single instant, but took his eye off the stock.

"Here is a young man who prefers to feed his soul with scientific knowledge rather than become a noodle gazing at the clouds capitally," remarked the astronomer, as he arranged the instrument. "All back you people who prefer the paltry sum of 10 cents to a view of the gates of paradise, and give this noble young man plenty of room!"

The noble young man removed his hat and placed his eye to the instrument, a clasp
was thrown over his head, and the astronomer
continued:

"Behold the bright star of Venus! A sight of this star is worth a thousand dollars to any man who professes education to money." There was an instant of deep silence, and then the young man exclaimed:

"By gosh!"

I stood behind him and knew that the telescope pointed at the fifth story of a building across the square, where a dance was in progress.

"All of them indulge in exclamations of admiration as they view the beauties and mysteries of nature," remarked the astronomer. "Young man, tell the crowd what you see."

"I see a fellow hugging a girl!" was the prompt reply—"durned if there isn't a dance of them!"

"And yet," continued the astronomer,
"there are solid wretches in this crowd
who hang to ten cents in preference to observing such sights as these in celestial space. Venus is millions of miles away, and yet by means of this telescope, and by paying ten cents, this intellectual young man is enabled to observe the inhabitants of that far-off hugging each other just as naturally as they do in this."

The instrument was wheeled around to show on the tower of engine house No. 7, five blocks away, and the astronomer continued:

"Behold the beautiful and the wonders of Belleville! This star, to the naked eye, appears no larger than a silver half-dollar;
yet yet for the paltry sum of ten cents,
this noble young man is placed within one mile of it!"

"By Jerusalem and coons!" murmured
the young man, as he slapped his leg.

"Tell me what you see, my friend."

"I see two fellows in a small room, smoking cigars and playing cards!" was the prompt reply.

"Saturn is 84,000,000 of miles from this town," continued the astronomer, "and yet the insignificant sum of ten cents has enabled this progressive young man to learn for himself that the celestial beings enjoy themselves pretty much as we do in this world. I venture to say that there is not a man in the crowd who knew before that the inhabitants of Saturn knew anything about cards or the big cigar factory!"

The instrument was changed again, and as the interest of the crowd increased, and the people began to press nearer, the professor said:

"Now behold the planet Mars, the second largest planet in the heavens. It is 74,603,344 miles from here, and appears to the naked eye to be nothing more than a bright star, and yet let this young man tell you what he sees!"

Half a mile up the street, in the topography of a big building, was an evening school. The telescope got the heads of one of the windows, and the young man almost leaped from the stool as he shouted, "Hokey to alligators!"

"It has been asserted by the college
astronomers that the planet of Mars is not inhabited," remarked the professor in quite cutting tones. "Some of them, pushed up with their arrogance, have called me a wretcher, and have abused this instrument, which was constructed for me by order of the Emperor Napoleon at a cost of $75,000, but let this observing young man tell you what he sees."

"Whetstones and whetstones!" exclaimed the young man.

"Tell them—tell them my young friend,
what you see," urged the astronomer.

"There's a fellow sitting on a bench hugging a girl. I saw him pinch her ear, and she hit him with a book. Darn my lutions, but she's all-dread pure!"

"Gentlemen, I am no slow-hand," said the professor in lucky tones. "I do not want to say what this telescope can do,
but I have the word of one of your fellow townsmen, and I do not believe that any of you will dispute him. I have been called a scoundrel, gentleman, because I go around the country tearing away from astronomy the veil of mystery with which so-called professors, gentlemen, surround
this noblest of stars."

"For the ridiculous sum of ten cents I am giving the public more astronomical knowledge in half an hour than any college professor can give you in six months. I demonstrate to you that the planet Mars is not only inhabited by human beings, but by beautiful girls in red hair, and by stylish young men wearing the best kind of stove clothes."

Once more he wheeled the instrument around. This time it got the range of the upper story of a tenement house, and he said:

"Behold the young man who has scarcely taken a glance through the tube when he yelled out:

"Great guns! But what planet is this?"

"You are now looking at Uranus," replied the professor. "Uranus is 97,562, 244 miles distant from the earth, and yet I warned that it doesn't appear over eighty miles away to you. Will you be kind enough, my friend, to tell this crowd what you see?"

"Oh, it's him! Whack him like I! Go in (old woman)" shouted the young man, slapping the old lady and then the other.

"Speak my, my friend. What do you see?"

"That's it! Get him by the hair now! I 'll bet fifty to one that she'll kick!"

"Won't you be kind enough, my friend,
to ally the curiosity of your friends?"

VOL. 9

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 30, 1875.

NO. 104

Mr. Crooks as a Minister.

As the Hon. Adam Crooks is again a candidate for a seat in the Ontario Legislature, his political record is receiving an overhauling. And, as it is not of the best, even some of the journals which usually take part with the Government, have been constrained to say unpleasant things of Mr. Crooks. The Baycegon Independent, which warmly supports Mr. Wood in the recent contest in South Victoria, and at times casts a favorable eye upon Ministerial doings, says of the Government candidate for South Victoria: "It is polony, containing chiefly an agricultural population, suggested either in the improvement of farms recently wrung from the wilderness, or otherwise, axe in hand, making for themselves new homes in the forest solitudes, do not reasonably be expected to raise skillful politicians, or men trained and educated in statesmanship. All that can be expected of our Ministers shall possess common sense, intelligence, honesty, and a knowledge of the requirements and resources of the country. These qualifications, Canadian Ministers, as a rule, are usually possessed, and not all of them at least some, and it was reserved for Mr. Crooks to prove that rule.

Canadian Minister who possesses none of them. But though Mr. Crooks is deficient in every necessary qualification for a Provincial Minister he is not the less desirous of distinguishing himself as a Legislator, and he left to eyes yet unborn one of the most wonderful pieces of Legislation that has passed through a Parliament. We refer to Mr. Crooks' Married Women's Property Bill, an act which completely destroys the ancient and time honored relation between husband and wife.

erty not only entirely independent of her husband but also of the husband's credit. Mr. Crooks' peculiar mind naturally led him to prefer the legislation which deals with Cheating, Swindling, and Fraud, and we do not hesitate to say that Mr. Crooks' revised Woman's Property Act has been a steady and uncompromising promoter of fraud, from the moment it was passed to the present day. By that act a husband make over to his wife, his farm, or his horse or his ox, or his ass, or anything that is in and at once the property is beyond the reach of the husband's creditors. A man may live in good style, may be surrounded by all the outward signs of wealth, may have fine horses in his stables and servants at beck and call. But for all that, beware of him, if he is a merchant or a trader and he comes to you to buy on credit. He has studied the Act of the Great Crooks, he has made his account with it, and he will not be taken in.

his property to his wife, everything she possesses isn't his but is hers, and if you're such a stupid as to let him obtain good credit when you press for payment be you to go to the d——. You can't get money. By the aid of Crooks' Act you Swindled, and palefaced Fraud, peeping cautiously from her secret hiding-place, commends her Crooks, and blames him as most trusty colleague. There is no exaggeration about this statement. Does anyone bankers ever disclose the fact of a little property being in possession of the bankrupt's wife? Does not nearly every case of a man "coming to grief," show that he has taken particularly good care before arriving at that point to avail himself of Crook's and to defraud his creditors by giving goods to his wife. It may be said that fraud is clearly intended any action under Act can be upset; and so it can, but the costs is troublesome, expensive, and uncertain, and if the debt is small no one can afford to undertake the task of making it. You may make what you like of it, but you are swindled, and that is the plain fact. It is not to be supposed for a moment that Fourier has ever studied politics sufficiently to be able to trace the origin and history of political ideas. If he had he would have known that the 'idea' contained in his celebrated paper is by no means new. It originated with Fourier, the Founder of Socialism in France, and proved so acceptable to the French that it became incorporated into all works on Communism. The right of women to hold property independently of husband and of the husband's creditors is a strong point with all those French ladies and gentlemen who believe in Free Love, and discard the old idea that husband and wife are one, and thus Crooks has not only been given legislative protection to France but has also done what he could in the cause of Free Love! Oh, Crooks, Crooks, who

The Feninn Brotherhood.

This mischievous organization, which is thought had quietly subsided, after robbing poor servant girls and ignorant laborers a considerable portion of their little earnings in the name of "patriotism," is not, it is quite dead, but preparing for another raid the pockets of the unwary. We rely at suspect that no more attempts will be to "conquer" Canada by this contemptible organization, but as our people still have interest in their movements, we give what

New York Herald of the 22d inst. has to concerning them:—"The annual Convention of the Fenian brotherhood, which, according to the knowledge in this city, was held at New York, on the 19th inst., was attended by about 100 delegates from all parts of the United States, and also by several Englishmen, who were invited to attend the convention. The delegates were received by the Fenian leaders, and the convention opened with prayers by Rev. Mr. [name] of New York. The first business of the convention was the election of officers, and the following were elected: President, [name]; Vice-President, [name]; Secretary, [name]; Treasurer, [name].
The convention then adjourned until the next day.
The Fenian organization is a secret society, and its object is to conquer Canada and Ireland. It is said that the Fenians are now planning a new expedition into Canada, and that they are recruiting men for this purpose. The Fenian organization is very active in the United States, and it is feared that it may soon become a serious menace to the peace and security of Canada.

to custom, was to take place in the following month of January next. The American organization, though not very active at present, yet retains some of its original vitality and the exertions of the officers in various parts of the country to establish new centres and increase the membership of old ones represented to be quite encouraging. The Western and New England States, satisfactory reports have been received by John O'Mahoney, the Head Centre in

States; and from Ireland intelligence has recently come to hand, it is said, to the effect that at no time for several years past has any party of separatists been in better or more hopeful spirits.

erator, there were tens of thousands who little in common with the so-called ultrarights and those loyal to the British government. Under the watchword of "Amnesty" they took occasion to manifest their convictions and sense of duty to Fatherland. When it is remembered, as a leading member of the Fenian Council remarked yesterday that over 500,000 people witnessed the grand and 300,000 were in the procession, slight disturbances as occurred was hardly to be wondered at. However, if the men

Daily Intelligencer.

MONDAY, AUGUST 30, 1875.

Town and Vicinity.

FLY-WAYS.—Mill owners will be wise to keep their fish slides in order, as it is the intention of Mr. Wilkins, the Inspector, to enforce the law, which requires the mill owners to keep the slides in good repair.

NEW GOWN.—The great bankrupt sale of dry goods and clothing at Wain's Commercial House.

GRIN.—The cartoon this week represents Mr. Crooks as the poor man who has been taken by M. O. Cameron and his followers by the way side. While at Toronto (the priest) and West Wellington (the Levite) has left him to die in vain, Grip, paroled in a tree near at hand, bids him "never say die." So Cameron and his followers, and the departing Treasurer, etc., hope this party coming will turn out to be a good Samaritan. The application is easily perceivable.

GO TO THE COMMERCIAL HOUSE. Wain's bankrupt stock of staple dry goods and clothing are being sold off at unheard-of low prices.

HARD TIMES.—The tightness of the times among vessel owners may be judged of from the fact that in former years eight or ten hundred tons of cargo ranged from $1 to $1.25 per thousand feet, vessels now carry it at 70 cts American currency and their own loading, which renders the rate equivalent to about 70 cts per thousand feet American currency. Even at these starvation rates shipowners can get ten times as many vessels as they wish to employ.

THE BANKRUPT STOCK. of dry goods and clothing at Wain's Commercial House is being sold off rapidly, call early and secure some of the bargains.

SPECIAL RECEPTION.—Capt Griffiths, of Kingston, has chartered the steamer Rochester for a special excursion to Kingston on Friday next, when he will give exhibitions with Royalistic saving dress, walking in the water, rescuing a man thrown from the steamer, paddling, sailing, &c. The boat will leave Belleville at 8 a.m. Fare, $1 for the round trip. As public interest has been excited concerning this dress, no doubt the excursion will be largely attended.

BARGAINS. are being obtained at the sale of Wain's bankrupt stock of first-class dry goods and clothing, now going on at the Commercial House, next door to Mr. Nathan Jones.

SALMON.—A fine salmon was seen a few days ago, ending its way up stream, by James Glass, Esq., and some other gentlemen who happened to be on the lower bridge at the time. The fish, which, according to the fisherman, weighed from 5 to 7 lbs in weight, was doubtless one of those fry which Mr. Wilkins placed in the Moira two or three years ago. We hope that this fine fish was but the forerunner of thousands of others, and that the experiment of introducing salmon again people the waters of the Moira with salmon may prove successful. The sight of this case is at all events an encouragement.

WRECKING TIME.—Prof. Tice, who has been very fortunate in winter weather predictions this year, seems to have gone astray a little at last. He predicted violent meteorological phenomena for the 25th and 31st of the present month; but the first named day has come and gone like any other day, leaving nothing unusual to mark its passage. There's one-half of the prediction gone unfulfilled, and the other—well we wait patiently for the 31st. The weather is a bad thing to prophesy about, it being as Lord Dundreary puts it, "one of those things that no fallah can undertake," in advance of its coming.

G. T. R. EMPLOYEES' ANNUAL RECEPTION AND PICNIC.—The annual excursion and picnic of the employees of the Grand Trunk Railway Company at Belleville took place on Saturday, 27th inst. The picnic spot chosen for the picnic ground was Smith's grove in the rear vicinity of Port Hope. A train consisting of twenty-one cars which left Belleville at 8 a.m. conveyed the excursionists to their destination. It was estimated that not less than twelve hundred people were on board, including many of our citizens and a representative of this journal, when the train started, and this number was largely increased as the journey proceeded. The appearance of the locomotive driven by Mr. Stevens was exceedingly handsome. It being brightly furnished and gaily decorated. Good time was made and we returned to Port Hope at 10 a.m. The excursion is an admirable one, being beautifully shaded, within easy access of Port Hope and distant from the shores of Lake Ontario only a few hundred yards. An excellent committee composed of the following gentlemen: T. McHaff, R. Fairbairn, A. H. Owens, H. W. Crasley, B. Stevens, S. Shyne, S. Kennedy, A. Garritt, P. Taylor, B. Casey and E. McConn had made arrangements for games and sports, and these were most enjoyably participated in by the excursionists. A large number of the excursionists, who were a stroll through the pleasant streets of the town. The appearance of the excursionists after the picnic was a most animated one. Happy groups and merry laughter were on every hand, and there could be no mistake as to the thorough success of the picnic. The return journey was commenced at 8 p.m., and was completed at 11 without any accident occurring or indeed anything having been experienced but that which betwixt headland pleasure.

DAILY MATE CONVENTION.—Prof. R. T. Greene, of the Institution here, has just returned from the meeting of the Daily Mate Convention, which has been in session at Watertown, N. Y., where it closed on Friday evening. The following arrangement, officially announced at the close of the meeting, shows how Mr. Greene's fine talents are appreciated by his fellow mates: "The next convention will be held at Elmira, N. Y., commencing on the 1st Wednesday of August, 1876, at the Hotel Greene of Belleville, Canada, will deliver the oration, with Thomas H. Jewell of New York, as his assistant." After the luncheon and these conclusions, the excursionists enjoyed a sail down the river on the steamer Montreal, which was boarded at Cape Vincent and visited Alexandria Bay and Brockville. The Waterfront Dispatch, from which the above facts are gathered, gives the following incident of the trip: A Professor from Belleville, a reporter from the Old Bay State, and a young lady teacher from Illinois formed a group which used the sign language with a fluency and rapidity which was perfectly astonishing, while the play of features made it plain that they understood and appreciated one another, and were bound to make most of the time they could together. The professor had lately been yachting in those very waters and was enthusiastic in their praise, while the reporter, while admitting the river scenery to be grand, could not be content and quoted—

"Oh, rich you my month may rest; Soft, soft, your winds may die; But my sick heart will no die, Where my own blue sea lies."

Rifle Association. Although the following exercises have been very late in coming to hand, we publish them in order to complete the record.

OPEN UP TO EFFICIENT VOLUNTEERS. Union file Members of the 10th and 40th Battalions and No. 7 Company, R. R. in the County of Hastings. Ranges 200, 300 and 500 yards. Number of rounds at each range, 100 rounds, 200 per squad. Ten cartridges, any position.

AMERICAN PROPPELLER PERSIAN BURNED.

LOSS OVER $150,000.

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—The propeller State was burned and sunk seven miles below Long Point yesterday, and is a total loss. She was owned by the Winthrop brothers, and valued at $115,000. She had a cargo of 15,000 bushels of wheat, and 50,000 barrels of corn.

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—The Empire State tonight brought in the remains and crew of the propeller State. They report that about 9:30 on Thursday night, when about seven miles from Long Point, the first engine of the State, then, the largest, burst, and the coal bunkers and promptly gave the alarm. The workroom about the engine was immediately on fire, and the flames were beyond control. Captain Platt, of the State, ordered the boats to be manned, but before one of them could be launched they were hopelessly burned. Attention was then directed to the latches and all were thrown overboard, and the officers and crew placed themselves upon them, each with a combing two persons. The lake was very calm, and all must have lost their lives. After floating about two hours the enormous meteorological phenomena for the 25th and 31st of the present month; but the first named day has come and gone like any other day, leaving nothing unusual to mark its passage. There's one-half of the prediction gone unfulfilled, and the other—well we wait patiently for the 31st.
